As a fraternity prank, the brothers of Alpha Tau Omega placed the former Meling's cow on the roof of the Zeta Beta Tau fraternity complex.

Freshmen Ben Fishel and Scott Smith join a fellow MC student at the Underground Cafe for a relaxing evening. Perhaps there should be a limit set on how many caffinated beverages you can actually buy.

Senior Andy Barrett becomes excited upon the discovery of mail in his campus mailbox. For his sake, let's hope it's not another bill.

Two freshman men explore new beautification techniques. After much thought and consideration, they decide that taking a mud bath will become a regular activity.

Freshman Anne Leonard is definitely not camera shy! She goes to extreme lengths to make this fact known during an A.S.A.P. sponsored band at the ZBT house.

Working hard or hardly working? Assistant Director of Student Activities and McMichael Residence Hall HR, Sarah Baker, is caught taking a break while supervising the Stockdale Center Office.

Time for a scene change!

Above: After the destructive wind storm this summer, Monmouth College was in desperate need for new landscaping. With donations given by alumni, new trees could be found sprouting up around campus.

Left: Taking into consideration the safety of the students, the college added new lamp posts along East Broadway in front of the school. New lamp posts and a new fence have also been placed behind the Bobby Woll Athletic Field.

In an attempt to create a more pleasing atmosphere for students to eat and socialize, Scotland Yard and the Tartan Room were both remodeled. The goal was to create an atmosphere similar to TGIF or Applebee's.

The newest addition to this year's security team was the golf cart. The golf cart has allowed security to decrease their response rate in times of crises.

Over the past year McMichael Residence Hall received a much need face-lift. New plumbing was added and the elevator was recommissioned. Rooms received new furniture and carpeting.

In conjunction with the remodeling of McMichael Residence Hall, the Bookstore was expanded to allow for more shelving and merchandise space.

Introducing the newest

The weekend of August 29 was one that changed almost four hundred lives. That was the weekend that freshmen first arrived on the Monmouth College campus. Freshmen that were involved in fall sports had already been in their dorm rooms for several days. Saturday was filled with the chaos of moving in and meeting new people. That afternoon was spent taking part in the Matriculation Ceremony in front of Wallace Hall. The ceremony was followed by a dinner that also took place on the Wallace Hall lawn. After the dinner most families left and students began their lives living independently as college students.

Everyone was divided into orientation groups which allowed for people to become more familiar with those who would be in their Freshman Seminar classes. Groups participated in ice-breaker activities and could be found eating all of their meals together that weekend. Freshmen also got to go on the Walk-About, an annual tradition where the new students walk through downtown Monmouth and get free treats and coupons from area stores.

Freshmen also got to see just how big the rivalry is between Knox College and Monmouth during the football and basketball games. We experienced our first Monmouth Homecoming in the pouring rain.

The year went by very fast and a lot of freshmen have some wonderful memories of their first year as independent college students. The freshmen are ready for their next three years as upperclassmen, having the times of their lives.

Monmouth College Presents: Family Weekend '98

"Even though it was a rainy and dreary weekend, it was still great to have family here."

Although the weather was rainy and dismal for this year's Family Weekend, activities were in full swing! Beginning on Friday at 10 a.m., parents had the option of attending classes with their sons or daughters. Families were also invited to visit the "Midwestern Connections" art exhibit in Hewes Library, have dinner in the Main Dining Room, and conclude their evening by viewing the free "Hot Flicks" movie, "Flubber," in the Auditorium.

Saturday it was still raining. Nevertheless, families, large and small, emerged with their raincoats and umbrellas to participate in the activities. Saturday morning began with a breakfast buffet in the Main Dining Room. From 9-10:30 a.m.

parents were invited to attend a meeting of the Parent Association where concerns and questions could be voiced and discussed. For lunch, families could return to the Main Dining Room for the all-campus indoor cookout. Throughout the day, tours were given of the founding homes of Pi Beta Phi and Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Alpha Xi Delta hosted an open house in the Highlander Room. Greek Creations provided an opportunity for fraternity and sorority members and their families to purchase Greek clothing items. The A.S.A.P. events, including a giant slide, caricature artist, human bowling, and much more, escaped the rain by relocating from People's Park to Glennie Gymnasium.

The football game was reminiscent of the 1940s movie "Singing in the Rain" ... but instead of singing, the fans were cheering and the Scots were scoring! Despite the muddy field, poor traction and incessant rain, the Fighting Scots led us to a 57-14 victory over the Illinois College Blueboys! After the game, families flooded the Underground Coffee Shop to warm up with hot chocolate and cappuccino. The newly renovated Bookstore also provided shelter from the storm.

Family Weekend is and always has been a tradition that brings Monmouth College to life for all of the students. Emily Stehling, a sophomore, said she enjoyed having a weekend set aside for students to show their families around campus. Junior Katie Erickson stated, "Even though it was a rainy and dreary weekend, it was still great to have family here."

Juniors Jay Sigler and Luke Raymond's parents were unable to attend Family Weekend this year. However, they were still able to enjoy the festivities. Luke mentioned that he enjoyed seeing his friends' parents. "It was especially fun since we had a big win," Luke said. Jay pointed out, "Even though some families couldn't come, friends' families sort of took them in." So, despite the unfavorable weather, Family Weekend was a hit, once again.

Before Saturday evening's entertainment began, families could go out to eat or have dinner in the Main Dining Room. At 8 p.m. the Auditorium was filled for the A.S.A.P. main event. Students and their families gathered to enjoy the hilarious movie interpretations of comedian Harry Basil.

On Sunday, our 1998 Family Weekend came to a close with brunch in the Main Dining Room and families attending the church services. By Sunday afternoon it had stopped raining and campus became subdued as families began departing for home, looking forward to next year's events.

Haunted Homecoming '98

Bonfire, Coronation, Spirit Shout, Parade, Banner Contest, Sports

Spirits other than those of the Fighting Scots fans were rising as this year's Haunted Homecoming began. A.S.A.P. got Homecoming off to a ghoulish start by sponsoring the annual Banner Contest that Friday afternoon. Student organizations and residence halls were invited to show their support for the Fighting Scots by creating a banner depicting the theme of this year's Homecoming to put on display for the entire campus to see. This year Fulton Residence Hall took first place in the contest.

Fans became even more excited at the annual Bonfire, Spirit Shout, and Homecoming Coronation that same evening. As Senior Jason Rippe lit the bonfire, the fans went wild. To keep the crowd pumped up, the Cheerleaders performed a cheer and dance. The evening continued with the annual Spirit Shout which was won by the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau.

Coronation of this year's Homecoming king and queen, Chris Triebel and Shana Barrett, was definitely the highlight of the evening. Those who didn't attend the bonfire were in the Glennie Gymnasium cheering the women's volleyball team to a victory.

Although Saturday morning was cold and wet, the parade took place as scheduled. Kappa Kappa Gamma stole first prize with their Homecoming float, and Pi Beta Phi and Alpha Xi Delta tied for second. The day continued with the football game which took place in the pouring rain. The players were muddy and the fans were soaked, but the enthusiasm of the Fighting Scots fans never drowned.

Campus Life: Behind the Scenes

Moving into Monmouth College, many people think, "What is there to do in a place like this?" Well, as we all have learned, there is a lot to do here! Campus organizations like A.S.A.P. and S.A. plan a variety of activities for students on campus, as do other organizations. Aside from movies like "Flubber," sponsored by A.S.A.P., there are many bands and comedians that come to campus, as well as other diverse entertainment.

Rarely it is difficult to find people willing to play sand volleyball with, and with all of the work the Wellness Center has done this year planning intramural sports, it has become even easier. As the winter months begin to take hold, however, there seems to be less going on outside, and MC students are forced to be creative with their fun.

"I like nothing better than a visit to the Underground on a cold winter night," says Senior Beth Dickey. The Underground is a popular place for open mic nights in which students get a chance to showcase their various talents.

For such a small school, there is always a lot to do. Although the beloved Rivoli movie theater in Monmouth closed this September, students still make the voyage to Galesburg to enjoy a night at the movies.

The fraternities and sororities also do their fair share of work planning campus wide events, including the Rave parties hosted by the brothers of Zeta Beta Tau, and the philanthropy Jail and Bail hosted by the sisters of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Local establishments have begun to host activities for the campus community as well by hiring the college band Mr. Roper to play for special events. Campus fun is not limited to just the weekends. Often students get together to study and play games on weeknights.

"Spontaneous fun is what Monmouth College is all about!" exclaims Senior Mike Forkan, who finds his fun sitting and chatting with friends after meals in the cafeteria.

Although studying does take up a bulk of time, as do extra curricular activities, Monmouth College is not absent of good times. There are events hosted by the International Club and Coalition for Ethnic Awareness that offer a vast variety of things to do. MC students have little to complain about when it comes to campus activities, and if they do, they are always welcome to attend any of the planning meetings for groups like A.S.A.P.

The team gathers during a time out to reorganize and pump up team morale.

Women's Volleyball

This year the women's volleyball team started off the season with a new head coach and a young team. This was Coach Kari Shimmin's first year of coaching, but she didn't have to adjust to the campus or the players. She played for the Fighting Scots during her four years at Monmouth. With only one returning senior, Michelle Krommer, this team had a lot of hard work ahead of them. Also returning to the team were Stacy Kreps, Cindy Erlandson, Wendy Erlandson, and Cathie Osborn, all of whom were letter winners last year.

Throughout the season "the team seemed to mesh together very well," said freshman Kelly Rask. "We all came together in any sort of problems that any one of us had to find a solution to, which in turn brought us closer together."

The team not only had great team camaraderie on the court, but off the court as well. The team went to the Alpha Tau Omega Halloween party each dressed up as a character from the movie The Wizard of Oz.

With such great team camaraderie and such a young team, Monmouth can look forward to a talented team next year and a great season.

FOOTBALL '98

The Monmouth College football team has been growing stronger over the past few seasons, and from the looks of this year's squad, it will continue to grow. When asked about this year's season, senior co-captain Zac Chatterton said, "The season started out dismal, but we have worked very hard to put ourselves in the position to win conference." It is a positive attitude like Chatterton's that keeps the spirit of the team going.

Another factor in keeping the Fighting Scots going strong is the large number of new players that the team has gained with this year's freshman class. As one of the largest squads in years, the team has been very visible on campus.

"I have never been part of such a large team before," said freshman Dave Garrett. "There are so many men to learn from that my playing has improved a lot." With all of this new talent that has joined the team, Scots fans can look forward to great seasons to come.

Although the team has suffered some tough losses this season, their wins have been stunning. Led by co-captains Zac Chatterton, Josh Diddier, Matt Russell, Jeff Timmons, and John Tournquist, the Fighting Scots have been able to keep their act together to win important games, such as the one against Illinois College on Family Weekend.

"Their amazing win was propelled by great playing and fabulous coaching by Kelly Kane," stated one parent as the game ended with a score of 57 to 14.

Every team has to go through a rebuilding period of some sort, and it looks as though MC has finished theirs. So look out Division III football, the Scots are ready to fight.

LADY SCOTS STRIVE FOR EXCELLENCE

The Monmouth College Women's Soccer Team has made great strides since it has entered the realm of Division III. The fairly new program is in its fifth year and has come to be a respected, as well as a feared, team of the conference. The team has been very close and it shows on the field. Toward the end of the season the team worked more as a whole unit with everyone on offense and everyone on defense. Coach Simon Cordery has been there from the start and is proud of what the team has become. "This season has proved that the Women's Soccer Team at Monmouth College has been brought to a new level of consistency as well as excellence," noted Cordery.

The team finished 8-8 overall, and sixth in the conference. Jill Heneghan commented, "We did not reach our expectations, but we cannot let that overshadow our accomplishments." She continued, "A couple of years ago, our record would have been a lost treasure to us." Some of the reasons for their success throughout the years are due to dedication, hard work, teamwork, and a lot of heart. This is most exemplified by the four seniors: Cynthia Larson, Malinda Springer, Laura Haiduke, and Tisha Kimoto. "Despite losing four superb players to graduation, I am confident that we can continue to improve," says Cordery.

The captains that led the Lady Scots for their second year were junior Jill Heneghan and senior Tisha Kimoto. Both have been named All-Conference for every season they have played at Monmouth, along with sophomore striker Jessica Adams. Heneghan has also been named Most Valuable Player for three years. "Kimoto completed her collegiate career by eclipsing her own school record of 11 goals . . . she finished with 29 points, which broke the former record of 23 points which were shared by Kimoto and Adams . . . her career totals tapped out at 32 goals and 71 points," noted a local newspaper.

As for next year, the 1999 MWS captain Anna Schlemmer summarizes it best. "Our goals for next year are difficult yet reachable. We have developed a core that is essential for our team to connect and utilize the skills we need to win."

"We started strong with two wins, then it went downhill from there," remarked senior Sean Lowry. Although the season started out with two wins, it must also be noted that these were not conference games.

Captain Matt Carl was quoted as saying, "It was a good season. We had the bench of guys ready to step up to the challenge." With the great expectations they had at the beginning of the year, they were a little disappointed with their overall standing.

"We didn't do too well," said Junior Marlon Layton. This seemed to be the general consensus of the men's soccer team. Freshman Ryan Schlegel had this to add, "We (freshmen) came in hoping to do well." Despite the disappointing season, the team worked well together and had a lot of fun.

Layton did have an optimistic outlook for the team. "This is a good setup for a good platform next year!" Lowery gave this advice to next year's team, "(Next year they) need to put their noses to the grindstone and win!"

Monmouth College Cross Country

Cross Country runners have a difficult job. They begin their season in blustering heat and end in the frigid cold. The women's team, despite small numbers and nagging injuries, finished ninth at the Midwest Conference Championships. One of the highlights was the team's fourth-place finish at the Scots' only home race of the fall season, the Division III Illinois State Meet. Led by senior Gretchen Vandergriff, who won all four all-state medals in cross country, and junior Ann Moody, the Scots captured a top four plaque for the fifth year in a row.

The men's team also faced a difficult season because of the lack of depth. Led by sophomore Tony Miles, the men finished seventh at the Midwest Conference Championships. Tony was also an All-State medalist, finishing twelfth in the Division III Illinois State Meet. Four of the five men who competed this season posted personal records for the '98 season. All of the men were underclassmen, so Coach Pio hopes that they will all work hard in the off season and bring the Monmouth team back to the top of the conference.

"We suffered a down year in terms of overall team results," said Monmouth Coach Chris Pio. "It certainly was a change from what we have been able to do in the past. This season should not be judged in disappointment, however, but rather as a challenge to work hard in the off season to get our team back into the competitive position we have been accustomed to."

Dara Pagel said, "This season was definitely different from the prior two seasons I have been on the cross country team. We were a small team this year and really were not able to do anything from a team perspective. But, as the saying goes, 'size does not matter,' and it really showed from an individual perspective. I was on the team with nine other individuals who were dedicated and worked hard at doing their best day in and day out. There were many individual victories achieved this season. If anything at all, I do not think that we should reflect on what might have been, but instead focus on what could be."

A Triumphant Final Season

The 1998-99 Fighting Scots wrestling team again enjoyed another successful season, placing two wrestlers in the NCAA Division III Great Lakes Regional Tournament. Senior Derek Harris placed third at the regional tournament and won three tournaments this season. Harris finished the year with a 28-6 record. Senior Luke Burton took fourth in the regional tournament to finish his season record at 15-6. The 1998-99 wrestling team will be the last wrestling team to step on the mats for the Scots. The school is cutting the program to make room for men's and women's golf teams.

The 1998-99 women's basketball team stepped onto the court this year with high expectations. After making their first-ever appearance at the Midwest Conference post-season tournament the year before, they were ready to not only repeat their performance, but to take it one step further and win the tournament. This goal was not unattainable with four starters returning along with eight other veteran players and a talented new group of freshmen. Unfortunately, the season did not work out as smoothly as the Scots had wanted. They fought to make it to post-season play but missed it by just one game. They ended their season with a record of 12-10.

We've Got Spirit, Yes We Do!

MC

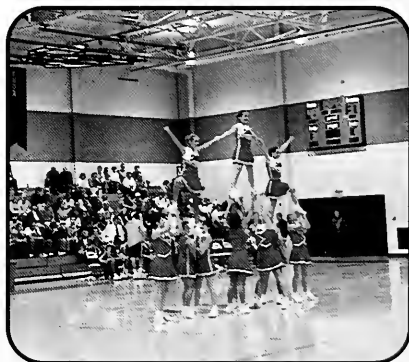

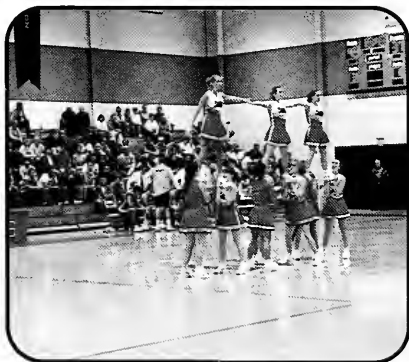

A new cast of characters took MC cheerleading by storm this year with the addition of men to the team. "It was great that we finally had guys on the squad," sophomore Maggie Semmington said about the season.

After a year of great improvement, the MC cheerleaders ended a great season on a strong note. Cheering for both football and basketball, the squad worked for a bulk of the year perfecting old routines and gathering new ones.

"It was a really great season for improvement," junior Emily Moore stated. Look for the Fighting Scot cheerleaders next year, adding school spirit to MC sporting events.

MC Dance Team Looks to the Future

The Monmouth College Dance Team had an exciting year. Finally recognized by the MC Student Association and faculty, the squad was able to purchase new uniforms for the team with funding from S.A. "It was our best season yet!" said captain April Palmer. The dance team performed routines at two football games and alternating men's and women's basketball games. Despite their busy schedule of performances, the squad was able to get involved with the community by holding a dance clinic for area kids. The little girls who attended the clinic were offered the chance to perform at one of the season's basketball games. Look forward to more from the MC Dance Team next year!

Men's Club Volleyball

The Men's Club Volleyball Team was on campus for the second year. However, this year they joined the MCVA conference. The team competed against teams like Western, University of Iowa, University of Illinois, and Knox. The team played well together and improved every-time they stepped on the court. The team lacked experience and that caught up with them during the season. They played every game with close scores, but they just couldn't manage to beat the competition.

The team included senior co-captains Chris Morris and Will Christenson, and junior co-captain Matt Carl. Also on the roster were senior Eric Sherrier; junior Claude Goudiaby; sophomores Cory McIntyre, Jon Baikie, and Ryan Gervali; and freshmen T.J. Boynton, Corey Custer, and Jon Greiman.

Returning coaches, juniors Stacey Kreps and Jill Brant, were honored to have the opportunity to coach the team again. The team would like to thank the assistant coaches Becky Lang, Jody Schaill, and Annie White. A special thank you goes to Coach Ole, who helped organize the games.

ALPHA XI DELTA

The women of Alpha Xi are having fun during the Homecoming Parade.

The Beta Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta was recolonized on the Monmouth College campus in November of 1997. With the help of supportive alumnae and other chapters in the area, we became the only Alpha Xi Chapter in the state of Illinois. With strong membership of around forty-five, we hope to keep growing and add other chapters in Illinois. Our national philanthropy, "Chose Children," allows us to get involved with children in the community and to raise money for various organizations that encourage these young people.

Being founding mothers at Monmouth College means that we have the utmost pride in and for our sisterhood. Our quill, which is our outward symbol, represents Alpha Xis everywhere, and the forty members who colonized also wear a colony pin to show our commitment in founding this great organization. To Alpha Xis, wearing our letters means love and faithfulness in the bonds of sisterhood.

Zeta Beta Tau was founded at the City College of New York on December 29, 1898. The Delta Lambda Chapter was founded at Monmouth on April 17, 1968. The members of ZBT are involved in many on-campus organizations and clubs. ZBT participates in many philanthropic activities throughout the year, from raising money for the Arthritis Foundation to donating food throughout the community.

Pi Beta Phi, the first women's fraternity, was founded here in Monmouth in 1867. We were established at the Holt House under the name of I.C. Sorosis. The name was changed to Pi Beta Phi in 1888. In the early years, Pi Phis were known for their charitable work. In 1884, the Monmouth Chapter relinquished its charter. However, on May 25, 1928, the chapter was rechartered and installed as the Illinois Alpha Chapter of Pi Beta Phi.

Today chapters of Pi Beta Phi have grown throughout the United States and Canada. Our tradition of helping the community still continues through programs such as Arrowmont, Links to Literacy, and Angels in the Arctic. Recently, our chapter has done a food drive during the holidays and a coat drive for those in need. In addition, Monmouth Pi Phis continue the tradition of Links to Literacy by reading to children at the local library. Our Illinois Alpha Chapter of Pi Beta Phi strives to benefit our founding community while keeping the bonds of sisterhood strong.

Kappa Kappa Gamma

Alpha Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma has been one of the strongest chapters at Monmouth College for decades. Kappas take great pride in the fact that we are the founding chapter of our fraternity. Originating here in Monmouth, the Stewart House stands tall and proud, containing all of our precious memories and keepsakes from the forefounders and of the days of old. The key and the fleur-de-lis have represented Kappa for numerous years. Kappas thrive on excellence and have received the Chapter award from National numerous times in the past. We also are involved in numerous philanthropic events throughout the year that benefit people all around the world. In addition, we recently just donated money for Breast Cancer Research with our "Jail and Bail" fund-raiser.

Kappas also take pride in rituals and performing the ceremonies correctly. Rush has always gone well for us and we never look at it like "making quota," but rather taking girls that will be true and faithful sisters for life. I think that is what Kappa is all about. It is the constant friend you can go to in times of need, anxiety, or just someone to laugh with. We hold many sisterhood events yearly that bring us together in something we all share--the joy of being friends and caring about others. The women of Kappa Kappa Gamma reflect back on their college years and smile when thinking of the good times and precious moments Kappa instills in each and every one of us. It is a joy to wear our letters and a gift to be a part of this purely original organization.

Sigma Phi Epsilon was founded at Richmond College in Richmond, Va., on November 1, 1901. The Illinois Gamma Chapter at Monmouth College was established on May 22, 1948 after merging with the Theta Epsilon Omega fraternity. Since that day, Illinois Gamma has flourished.

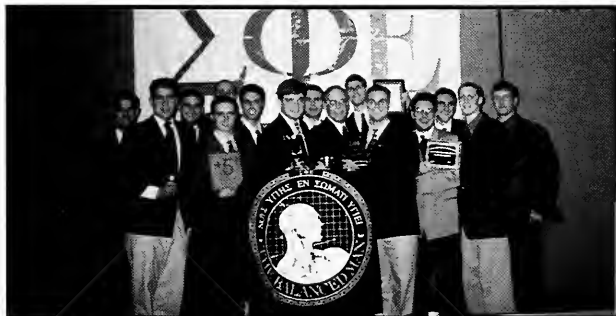

Sig Ep has a reputation for excellence. The Monmouth College chapter expects no less. They continue to be leaders on campus as well as the nation. They have enjoyed having the prestige of being number one in academics and manpower among the three campus fraternities for the past sixteen years, with continuously surpassing the all-campus GPA and recently accepting 27 new members during fall rush. This excellence carries over to the national scene also. Among the 246 chapters nationwide, Illinois Gamma is tied for third in overall chapter excellence.

The men of Sigma Phi Epsilon are not only known for their excellence, but also their commitment to the community. The brothers of Illinois Gamma contribute to a variety of philanthropic projects throughout Monmouth. Some volunteer at the local YMCA soccer club for younger children. Others help out at the local Head Start shelter. Recently, the fraternity put together a haunted house for the local school children and campus that saw a turnout of almost 200 people in four hours. This dedication adds to their strength and reputation as leaders in the community.

On campus the Sig Eps are known for their contribution to the social scene. Each weekend many students can be found at the house having a good time. The annual "Go to Hell" Halloween party and St. Patrick's Day party is something looked forward to by all. During Homecoming and many football games, the hill overlooking the football field by the Sig Ep house can be seen filled with brothers and alumni ready to cheer on the home team.

Sigma Phi Epsilon at Monmouth College is seen as a major contributor to campus and community life. If it's giving their time to help out local kids, or dancing around as a ballerina at the "Go to Hell" party, Sig Ep is recognized by their assistance to everyone who will take it. For these reasons, the men of Illinois Gamma can truly be seen as their trademark, the "Balanced Man."

From the Clipboard

Our Country's Good tells the story of the first boatload of British convicts to arrive in Australia in 1788. The governor general, in spite of opposition from his officers, tries to boost the faltering morale in the colony by putting on a play.

A young lieutenant is drafted to direct George Farquhar's 1706 comedy, The Recruiting Officer, and the convict actors, few of whom can even read, dig into their parts with relish. The play is based on a novel, The Playmaker, by Thomas Keneally, which in turn was based on the actual journals of some of the participants.

Our Country's Good illustrates several of Wertenbaker's key concerns as a playwright--the fluidity of gender and race, the ability of rational human beings to transcend their circumstances, the effects of penal policies on the prisoners, the jailers, and the society, and finally the transforming power of the theatre itself.

CELEBRATION opened on Broadway in January of 1969 and ran for 110 performances. It was a modest success but certainly didn't take the theatrical world by storm. Typically, the show is known as "the other show" written by the creators of THE FANTASTICKS and I DO, I DO.

In an age characterized by MTV visual and sound bites, I thought it useful to choose a show which revolves around the ritual aspects of drama. CELEBRATION opens with the narrator Potemkin inviting us to assist her "with our imagination...to make this humble stage a place for celebration." With an elemental set and a variety of "found" costumes and props, the show propels us on an emotional ride to discover who we are and what we believe in. To paraphrase a lyric from PIPPEN: "not bad for musical comedy."

This is also the time of year when we bid a fond farewell to our seniors. I hope you will explore the bulletin board in the Lobby--we have a marvelous crew who have participated in Theatre as part of their Monmouth experience.

Director's Notes

I first saw WASP in the basement of a coffeehouse in Chicago a few years ago and knew from that production that this play is a classic. Steve Martin combines two of my favorite aspects of the theatre--comedy and absurdism--to create a thought-provoking, laugh-filled one act play. The play is centered on an average 1950s WASP family. In thirty minutes, we are presented with their normal interactions as well as the dreams they have to motivate their existence. The end result is a little deeper than "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and a little funnier than "Pleasantville."

Director's Notes

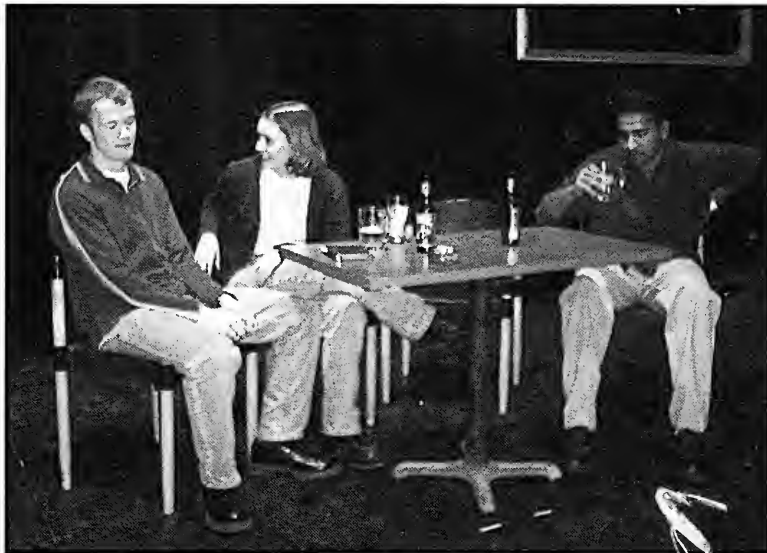

"The Bald Soprano" is considered to be a classic work from the "theater of the absurd." The playwright, Eugene Ionesco, draws particular attention to events and behaviors which are completely abnormal but are treated by the characters as if they are perfectly normal. Ionesco's focus on the meaning of language and the complexity of communication is completely fascinating in this piece. I chose to direct this show in particular because it steps outside of the conventional framework of theater and in effect I hope to challenge the audience's expectations of traditional theater.

"The universe seems to me infinitely strange and foreign. At such a moment I gaze upon it with a mixture of anguish and euphoria; separate from the universe, as though placed at a certain distance outside it; I look and I see pictures, creatures that move in a kind of timeless time and spaceless space, emitting sounds that are a kind of language I no longer understand."

Director's Notes

I was very nervous about directing a play which I wrote. I am new to playwriting and found the overall experience exciting. This play is not meant to provide the audience with a deep meaning to life; its purpose is simply to provide the view with a look into real life where you may see someone you have known or met.

I would like to thank my cast for bringing the play to life. I also want to thank Doc for helping with the writing, Doug and the entire tech theatre class, the Bijou for the props they provided, and finally, Amie, my personal editor. Music Concerts at Monmouth College

In the November concert, the Choir performed one piece after another to the delight of the crowd.

Peter Ullman wows the crowd with his solo performance.

John Warren, John McClain and Kyle Baker give the crowd something to cheer about with their a cappella stylings.

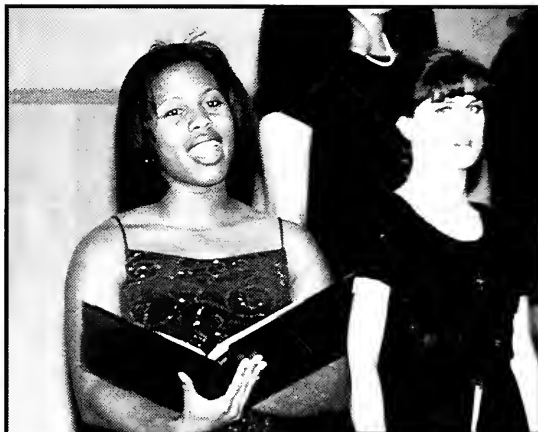

The Sound of Five pauses for a minute of recognition during the concert.

Perry White conducts up a storm during a concert.

They Might

On April 24th, history was made at Monmouth College. For the first time ever on the campus, a nationally known band, They Might Be Giants, performed in concert. The band was chosen by the students. Lists were drawn up by ASAP of all the possible bands, and the actual voting took place before Christmas outside the cafeteria. ASAP then went to work making the preparations for them to come.

On April 23rd, the stage, lighting, and sound systems arrived. A very devoted group of students helped unload and set up the equipment in preparation of the next day's concert.

The band's gear arrived early on the 24th. Many of the same volunteers, tired from the day before, came and moved that into the gym. Slowly all the black boxes that peppered the floor were unpacked and everything was put into place.

The opening band, Michael Shelly, began playing at 8 p.m. Their music was good, but not well-known. Their claim to fame being a Gap commercial.

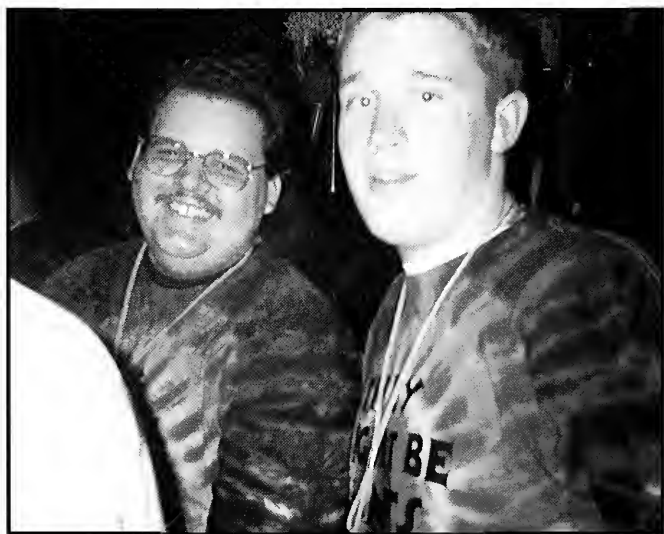

It was not until 9 p.m. that the audience really became energized. When the Giants took the stage, the crowd moved closer to the front of the stage and many who had been sitting in the bleachers came down and joined the throng.

The Giants played many of their most popular songs, including "Birdhouse In Your Soul," which even had Deans Ogorzalek and Rovinski dancing along. As they went off-stage before the encore, the crowd began to chant "Istanbul," referring to "Istanbul, Not Constantinople"...what is quite possibly their most popular song. The Giants responded to the request and came back on to perform that song which finished off the concert.

After the crowd had cleared and the band had returned to the hotel, the students began to dismantle the stage and lighting. By 2 a.m., the gym was back to looking like a gym and there was little evidence left of what had transpired there just hours before...except in the memories of those who were there and witnessed history at Monmouth College: They Might Be Giants in concert.

Be Giants

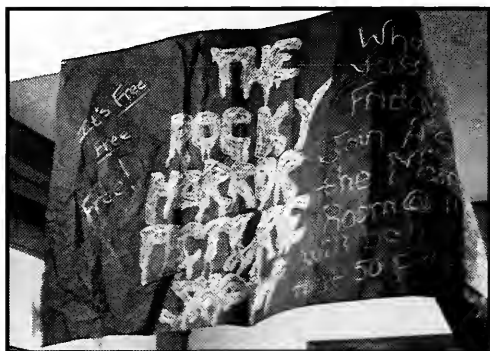

ASAP... knows how to provide entertainment to MC

This year was a landmark one for ASAP, the most talked about student organization. They combined their time-less events like February's Comedy Month and the Rocky Horror Picture Show that everyone knows and loves, with new events such as the long-anticipated concert with They Might Be Giants, to create a memorable year for students at MC. Some of the highlights of the year included Dr. Elmo singing "Grandma Got Run Over by a Reindeer" at the Christmas banquet, and the a cappella group Tonic SolFa which was a very well attended event. The focus of the year, however, was of course They Might Be Giants. ASAP will continue to have popular bands come to campus hopefully every other year. Another event that will continue to go strong after this year's success is Open Mic Night at the Underground. Student participation has been wonderful and ASAP members are looking into having a Battle of the Bands as one of next year's events.

For next year, advisors Sarah Baker and Karen Ogorzalek hope to have more members join. They can always use help coordinating Homecoming events, with their Creative Arts Alliance, or in choosing a band for the next big concert.

Spotlight 1999

Spotlight is an annual talent show that is sponsored by Blue Key, which is a service organization here on campus. Students and sometimes even professors come out to share their talents with Monmouth College. This year's talent show was a success with 12 acts and a Kiss the Pig contest at intermission. Not to mention our favorite M.C., Professor Johnston, who kept us entertained between acts. In sum, the night was truly enjoyable and filled with laughs and cheers for our fellow students.

Founders Day '99

The one day of the year to celebrate the founding of

By: Sherri Polk

So, did you "Feel the Heat" on Founders Day? O.K., neither did I but regardless of the cool weather and spotty showers, everything seemed to be a big success. The turnout of students and faculty was greater than in previous years.

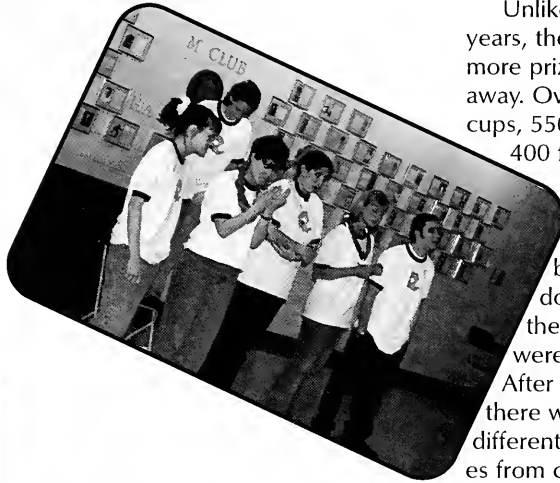

The highlight of the day began with over 160 students and faculty participating in the softball tourney. The faculty was eliminated early in the day and the winning team was the Donkey Punchers, whatever that means.

Surprisingly, the cool weather didn't stop crazy students and faculty from participating in Jell-O wrestling and pudding tug-of-war. Several people made big splashes in the Pudding and Jell-O. Dr. Bond even got into the pudding fun!

"Feel the Heat"

Monmouth College is a wild success!

Unlike previous years, there were far more prizes given away. Over 1,000 cups, 550 Key chains, 400 flyers, and various prizes including over 400 bucks in donations from the community were given away. After the games, there were a lot of different performances from college groups. Scotch Tape, the new improv group on campus, performed a hilarious show.

After the sun went down, the bands began to play. The student band of N.P.E. livened up the gym with outstanding performances in between by Mister Roper. Professor of the year Dick Johnston joined in with a few appearances. Overall, Founders Day was a great success.

These students and their stalwart chaperone went to Sissetou, S.D., where they worked with Native American children (Dakota Sioux) at two Boys and Girls Clubs. They also painted murals on the walls at the children's schools.

This group went to East St. Louis for alternative Spring Break (March 27-April 2, 1999) and discovered many things about building community and the joys of helping others. We learned that communities can recover from economic tragedy and were impressed by the strength of hope maintained by life long East St. Louis citizens.

Commencement is about celebrating...

...new beginnings...

...recent memories

Commencement day for the Class of 1999 started out with black, threatening clouds and the possibility the ceremonies might be held inside. But the sun came out and a gentle breeze blew in the promise of a picture perfect day for the graduates and their families.

The Monmouth College Pipe and Drum Corps in all its splendid tradition led the processional onto the Wallace Hall Plaza.

FAREWELL TO THE COLLEGE

by Diana L. Plack '99

Lincoln Laureate

Four years ago I sat here with the rest of you in the hot August sun listening to the bagpipes and found myself in a state of bewilderment as the whole notion of Matriculation seemed very odd. It doesn't seem all that long ago. Yet today I look out at a crowd of familiar faces and it seems clear to me that quite a bit of time has passed since we all gathered together for the first time. And now today, we all gather together here as a group for the final time and say goodbye. But before I get to the bittersweet farewells, let me first, on behalf of the Class of 1999, issue thanks to those people who have made these past four years possible.

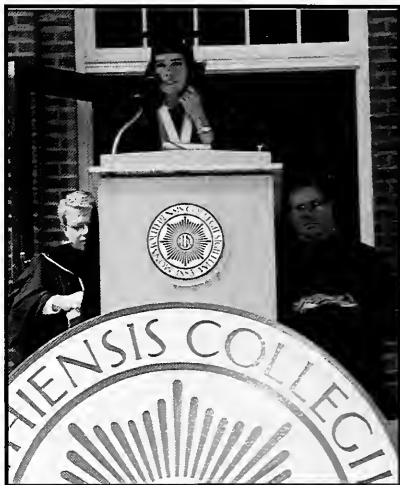

First, thank you to all our professors who have not only caused us loss of sleep over papers and exams, but also offered us support and guidance while grounding us with knowledge that stretches far beyond the classroom. To President and Mrs. Giese, thank you for all the refreshing changes you've brought to this campus in the past two years. Thank you to the Green Army for keeping the dorms clean and safe places to live. And, of course, thank you to "The Omelet Lady" for supplying a nutritious and tasty breakfast to those of us who couldn't make it to breakfast by 8 a.m. Finally and most importantly, thank you to our parents and other family members who helped make these past four years of our lives possible. You've watched us change and grow during these times, and your support and guidance are appreciated.

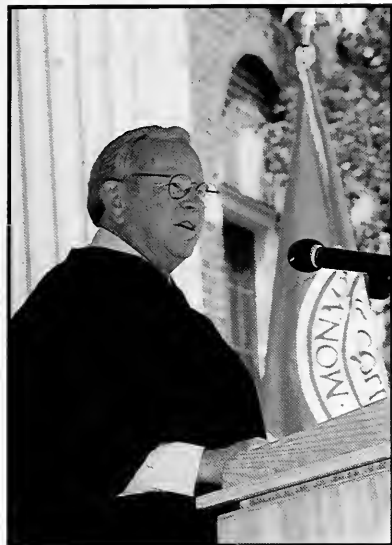

But now it is time for the Class of 1999 to say farewell to Monmouth College. Farewell to dear Wallace Hall and the treacherous Wallace Hill on those icy winter days. Farewell to Scor's Day and bagpipes at 6 a.m. Farewell to midnight breakfasts at 10 p.m. Farewell to late nights in the dorms and Bredeaux pizza. Farewell to dinners and parties at professors' houses. Farewell to late night runs to Giants--it will always be Giants to us, right? Farewell to Gibson and its constant source of entertainment. Farewell to loads of laughs from Anvilhead in the Underground. Farewell to the familiar for change is near upon us all.

Yet "farewell" seems so final. So I want to end with a poem that Dean Merritt sent to me:

*Goodbye is not an ending when you know that people care,
For miles come between us,
But warm thoughts are always there.
Goodbye is not an ending
But a different start for us...
A time for making brand new friends and building old trust.
Goodbye is not an ending,
For you'll find along life's way
That within your heart you'll always have

Farewell Class of 1999 and best of luck!

Monmouth College's 1999 Commencement speaker, Senator Howard H. Baker, Jr.

Members of the Class of '99 listen to Senator Baker talk about his political roots in the Midwest.
